News Alert Class: Prophetic Analysis Cease Fire Update

In The News...

If you have been reading my analysis of what we have been witnessing over the last month, you know that I have said that if Israel stops this battle now, their enemies will see them as weak and will exploit that weakness. Well, here we go, the headlines are coming in and that's exactly what is happening and believe me this puts Israel in great danger and that follows Prophecy to a tee!

I also reported in my last report yesterday, watch for the call to have PM Olmert ousted from office. Sure enough, that's happening in Israel right now. See the articles below for the details.

The politicians here in the U.S. , in Israel and abroad are playing with fire literally and think that they are doing the world a favor by stopping Israel and at the same time – appeasing the Arab community. This is exactly what happened in WW II, Hitler was appeased by Europe and at the last minute the U.K and the U.S. went after Hitler and stopped him just in time. History reports, if we had not moved when we did, Hitler would have succeeded in his mission of world conquest! History is screaming at the top of it's lungs, do not appease these Islamic Fundamentalists- defeat them wherever they are and do it now! Sadly, the world has not learned the lessons of WW II, we will talk and negotiate until it's too late. The Bible is clear that what is coming is the worst war that will cover the globe from corner to corner. It will happen for a few reasons:

1. We have refused to follow God and His Word!
2. We have not learned from the past – Past events dictate present behavior...
3. We have become too concerned with what others think of us and political correctness has disabled us from doing what is necessary.
4. We do not have the will or faith to make the hard decisions.

This just in...It is possible that Hezbollah will not honor the cease fire, orders have come in from Iran to keep shelling northern Israel. Sec. of State, Rice, has warned Lebanon, the U.S. can not be held responsible for what happens if the cease fire is not honored on their part.

Neighbors Smell Blood in Israeli Cease-Fire Acceptance

16:53 Aug 13, '06 / 19 Av 5766

by Ezra HaLevi

Arabs and Muslims from Iran, Hizbullah and the PA are celebrating Israel's acceptance of the UN ceasefire, dubbing it a "surrender" and calling on Arab states to attack the new "weak" Israel.

"After one month of war against Lebanon's resistance, Israelis are the absolute losers and Hizbullah is the absolute winner of the war," Iran's Foreign Ministry spokesman Hamida-Reza Asefi said Sunday. "The occupiers of Jerusalem failed, despite their military, economic, intelligence and diplomatic backings."

The Iranian official said the Islamic Republic of Iran is "very pleased" with the ceasefire, according to state-run Iranian news agency IRNA. He warned, though, that attacks on Israel would continue as long as "occupation lingers." He declined to outline whether occupation included retaining sovereignty in regions such as the Galilee – which Hizbullah chief Hassan Nasrallah has termed "settlements" in his wartime addresses. "Let us not forget that as long as there is occupation there is resistance," he added.

Hizbullah central council member Ahmed Barakat told Qatari newspaper al-Watan Sunday, "Today Arab and Muslim society is reasonably certain that the defeat of Israel is possible, and that countdown to the disappearance of the Zionist entity in the region has begun... If a mere organization succeeded in defeating Israel, why would Arab nations not succeed in doing so if they allied? Many Arabs and Muslims viewed Israel in a fictional way and the resistance has succeeded in changing this."

Barakat boasted that none of Hizbullah's leadership were injured, and that the group still possesses thousands of rockets and other "surprises" for use in the days following the implementation of the UN ceasefire. He added that the remaining missiles and weapons allow Hizbullah to strike Israel from afar and do not require the group to be near Israel's border.

Photos of Hizbullah-leader Hassan Nasrallah "hang everywhere in Ramallah," according to Al-Jazeera, "covering the walls and shop fronts and plastered across T-shirts and demonstration banners." The number-one song in Ramallah this summer, "blaring [repeatedly] out of shops and streets stalls," is "The Eagle of Lebanon," referring to the Hizbullah chief.

"Secularists, Christians and Muslims alike refer to the Hizbullah leader as Palestine's newest and truest hero," the Al-Jazeera report states. "Back at Manara square in Ramallah, Waleed Ayyoub is still selling the Nasrallah images to 'all people of all ages - even little children.' He is especially proud of a sale made to an Arab-Israeli woman from Haifa, fleeing the Katyusha attacks on her city."

Analysis: Ceasefire is Bad, Gov't Must Go

18:22 Aug 13, '06 / 19 Av 5766

by Hillel Fendel

Columnist Caroline Glick & int'l legal scholar Prof. A. Bayefsky analyze the ceasefire resolution, concluding it is an "unmitigated disaster" for Israel. Columnist Ari Shavit says Olmert must go.

The conclusions reached by Bayefsky [pictured] and Glick, which appear in a Jerusalem Post article authored by Glick, are summarized below:

- * Responsibility for determining compliance is in the hands of UN Secretary-General Kofi Annan, who has "distinguished himself as a man capable only of condemning Israel for its acts of self-defense while ignoring the fact that in attacking Israel, its enemies are guilty of war crimes."
- * No mention of Hizbullah-patrons Syria or Iran, thus ignoring the regional aspect of the war.
- * Rewarding Hizbullah's aggression by giving international legitimacy to its demand for territory - namely, the Shaba Farms - via acts of aggression. Moreover, by allowing Lebanon to make territorial claims on Israel despite the fact that in 2000 the UN determined that Israel had withdrawn to the international border, the resolution sets a catastrophic precedent for the future.
- * Though Israel had demanded an arms embargo against Hizbullah, this issue is put off to a vague date in the future - and the power to oversee such an embargo is placed in the hands of the Lebanese government, of which Hizbullah is a member.
- * The resolution calls upon Israel to withdraw all of its forces from southern Lebanon even before Lebanese and UNIFIL forces are fully deployed in the area - creating a vacuum allowing Hizbullah to reinforce its positions in south Lebanon.
- * The resolution makes no operative call for the release of IDF soldiers Ehud Goldwasser and Eldad Regev being held hostage by Hizbullah. "By relegating their fate to a paragraph in the preamble, which then immediately turns to Hizbullah's demand for the release of Lebanese terrorists held in Israeli jails, the resolution all but eliminates any possibility of their returning home."
- * It should be assumed that Hizbullah's presumptive victory in its war against Israel will act as a catalyst for violence by Hizbullah allies in Iraq against the Iraqi government and coalition forces in the weeks to come.
- * Iran emerges as the main victor in the current war.
- * By handing a victory to Hizbullah, the resolution strengthens the belief of millions of supporters of jihad throughout the world that their side is winning and that they should redouble efforts to achieve their objectives of destroying Israel and running the US out of the Middle East.

Shavit Calls for Olmert's Ouster

Meanwhile, Haaretz columnist Ari Shavit called on Friday for an end to Prime Minister Olmert's government. Excerpts:

"...If Olmert runs away now from the war he initiated, he will not be able to remain prime minister for even one more day. Chutzpah [nerve] has its limits. You cannot lead an entire nation to war promising victory, produce humiliating defeat and remain in power. You cannot bury 120 Israelis in cemeteries, keep a million Israelis in shelters for a month, wear down deterrent power, bring the next war very close, and then say, 'Oops, I made a mistake. That was not the intention. Pass me a cigar, please.'

"There is no mistake Ehud Olmert did not make this past month. He went to war hastily, without properly gauging the outcome. He blindly followed the military without asking the necessary questions. He mistakenly gambled on air operations, was strangely late with the ground operation, and failed to implement the army's original plan, much more daring and sophisticated than that which was implemented. And after arrogantly and hastily bursting into war, Olmert managed it hesitantly, unfocused and limp. He neglected the home front and abandoned the residents of the north. He also failed shamefully on the diplomatic front...

"The day Nasrallah comes out of his bunker and declares victory to the whole world, Olmert must not be in the prime minister's office. Post-war battered and bleeding Israel needs a new start and a new leader. It needs a real prime minister."
